The 1993 VINO Bianco, a varietal Fiano aged for 31 years in stainless steel, displays a remarkably vibrant yellow-golden color. The purity here is unreal, with a seductive bouquet of fresh peach sorbet with nuances of butterscotch, confectionery spice and mint. The palate is nearly oily but maintains vibrancy throughout, as green apple-tinged acidity offsets ripe peach fruit. The finale is classically dry and surprisingly lively with hints of Bosc pear. This late release demonstrates Fiano's superb aging potential.
