

90^{pts}

TAURASI
DOCG RISERVA
VIGNA OLMO
2010

The 2010 Taurasi Riserva Vigna Olmo offers less primary fruit at this point in its evolution, but it compensates with characteristics aromas of black olive, bramble and campfire ash. Fruit comes from a single-vineyard site with 25-year-old vines planted at very high altitudes (870 meters above sea level). Indeed, the wine is on the greener side, not on the ripe side of the Taurasi spectrum. The wine drinks nicely now and should probably hold steady a while longer before facing any significant decline. Some 45,000 bottles were made.

SOURCE	REVIEWER	MATURITY
Interim December 2018 Week 1	Monica Larner	Drink: 2018 - 2024

